Professional Ethics in Design and Building

Presented By
The Robert J. Rutland Institute for Ethics and the
South Carolina Board of Architectural Examiners

Friday, January 28, 2011
“Clemson at the Falls”
55 E. Camperdown Way
Greenville, SC 29601

Stephen Satris is Associate Professor of Philosophy at Clemson University. Satris joined Clemson in 1986. He did his graduate work in philosophy at the University of Hawaii (M.A., 1971) and Cambridge University, Cambridge, England (Ph.D., 1984).

He has designed and taught a course at Clemson on Ethics in Architecture. He teaches Introduction to Ethics, Moral Philosophy, Logic, and Ancient Philosophy on a regular basis.

Daniel E. Wueste is director of the Rutland Institute for Ethics. He earned his Ph.D. in Philosophy at Washington University in St. Louis. His primary research interests are in legal philosophy and practical and professional ethics.

He teaches in the Department of Philosophy and Religion, as well as Clemson’s MBA Program, and Ph.D. Program in Healthcare Genetics. He has conducts ethics seminars for a variety of professionals (e.g., architects, engineers, attorneys, and hospital administrators). He is a Senior Fellow of the International Center for Academic Integrity and president of the Society for Ethics Across the Curriculum.

LOCATION: “Clemson at the Falls”
55 E. Camperdown Way
Greenville, SC 29601

TIME: 8:00 AM* - 4:30 PM

The day will be divided into four 90-minute sessions; 15-minute breaks will separate the two sessions in the morning and in the afternoon. One hour will be scheduled for lunch, which will be provided. Fifteen minutes will be set aside for wrap-up and formal evaluation.

The aim of the Professional Ethics in Design and Building seminar is to enhance practical understanding of relevant state law and, in particular, ethical principles relevant to architectural practice. The approach is interactive and user-friendly. We use case studies (a) to elicit ethical principles and (b) as occasions for practice in applying them. We explain how these ethical principles figure in what we call a “toolbox approach” to ethical decision-making and stress the need to approach ethical issues in a systematic, reflective and responsible way.
